POLICE DID NOT ORDER CLOSING

"Blue Law" Enforcement Mostly Rumor and so Far no One Has Been Arrested.

WAS ONLY ONE MAN AFFAIR

John Joyce Threatened to Close the City on Sunday Because it Was Voted "Wet."

So far no affidavits have been filed against Rushville merchants for keeping open on Sunday. The proposed Sunday closing caused a big stir on the streets yesterday and most of the talk seems to have been caused from rumors. It was reported that all places which usually keep open on Sunday or a part of the day
had been ordered by the police to close. This was not the case and was probably caused by the fact that two pool rooms were closed.

The whole thing was laid on one man, John Joyce. Joyce it seems is sore because the city went "dry" and made remarks on the street that he would close everything up on Sunday.
The two pool rooms that were closed claimed to have received the tip and did not open yesterday.
Joyce was in the places of business
that were open yesterday morning
but did not make any effort to close them.

The police professed to know nothing of the "blue law" enforcement and both Chief McAllister and policeman Wolter stated that they did not order any of the places closed.
It was stated that the "wets" in order to get revenge were going to close up everything on Sunday and that Joyce was behind the movement.
The "wet" leaders deny this and according to one well known "wet"
worker Joyce was never told to do what he did, and a majority of the
"wets" disapprove his action.

The Sunday "blue law" has never been enforced in Rushville as it was never thought necessary. The drug stores are open only a part of the day and with the exception of the pool rooms the candy kitchens are about the only places open all day.
The police were informed that twelve or thirteen affidavits would be filed
before Squire Kratzer but at a late hour today none had been filed and all effort to locate Joyce failed. It is said that the matter will be dropped and the city will be run on Sunday as usual.

Mrs. Nannie Miller will give an entertainment Thursday night in the colored Masonic hall. Dinner will be served in the colored Odd Fellows hall.

Yon Can Secure An Education at Home

Not every boy or girl has the opportunity or money to go to college---yet the desire for knowledge is ever increasing.

Millions of minds have been taught to think by carefully and critically reading the daily newspaper. Many have secured a liberal education by reading the daily lessons in geography, in science and health, in histories of civics and politics, in romances and humanities.

Every day's issue of THE DAILY REPUBLICAN will add to your store of knowledge, will help to perfect you in the art of conversation, will present important business problems and their solution, will assist in making you a pleasing entertainer,
will bring you all the important news of modern life.

It will pay you to read THE DAILY REPUBLICAN closely and constantly every day. Its news and features columns will give you a splendid education and its advertising columns will enable you to purchase everything you require for person or home to best advantage.

FRANK PELHAM IS FINED

Former Glenwood Druggist Appeals
Case in Muncie Court.

Frank Pelham, formerly a Glenwood druggist, has been fined a dollar and costs in police court at Muncie, where he is employed in a drug store, for selling cocaine. He has appealed the case to the circuit court
and filed an appeal bond in the sum of fifty dollars. Pelham will be remembered as the dashing young druggist of Shelbyville who, when he located in Glenwood, wooed and won
in a short time, Florence Wagoner,
who was counted the most beautiful girl in the village. The married life
was almost as brief as the courtship,
and ended in the divorce courts.

"EXILES" HAVE AN EVENING TOGETHER

Chance Gathering of Former and Present Rush County People in San Diego, Cal.

AT CHARLES HUDSON'S HOME

Former Rushville people have written here concerning a gathering of former Rush county people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hudson in San Diego, Cal., one day last week, when they talked of the days
they spent in their homes in this vicinity. Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Parsons, who are traveling through the west, were at the Hudson home a short time, but had to leave early in the evening. Music was furnished
during the evening.

Among those present at the affair
were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullin and daughter Miss Anna Mullin of Rushville; Ed Walker of Rushville; Samuel Rea and daughter, Mrs. J. L. Barrett and J. L. Barrett of Toledo, Ohio, formerly of Rushville; Mr.
and Mrs. G. F. Blesch, formerly of Falmouth, San Diego residents now.
Mrs. Fred B. Bliss of Warren, Rhode Island. Olen and Wilford Hudson
and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hudson.

BUT THIS IS INDIANA.

Connersville News: Those who scoffed at the pleas of Albert J. Beveridge last campaign for a minimum wage scale for women might be convinced that such a law was needed
by following the report of the Illinois
Senate committee now in progress at Chicago. There is tragedy in the tales some girls are telling and the interviews with managers of large retails establishments employing thousands of girls make interesting reading.

ELECTION WILL CARRY IS BELIEF

General Sentiment at Meeting This Afternoon Was That Subsidy
Tax Would be Voted.

INDIVIDUAL COST IS LIGHT

Voters Should Cast Aside Selfish Motives and See Only Value of Extension.

The general sentiment expressed
at the meeting in the court house this afternoon to organize for the I. & C.
subsidy election Wednesday was that the small tax would be voted to the interurban line by large majorities in Richland, Noble and Rushville townships where the election will be held.

What little opposition there was to the subsidy has been subsiding gradually and it is felt now that very few taxpayers, if any, will offer any fight against the plan adopted to reimburse the traction company to the extent that it will have to expend for right-of-way that has not been donated for the extension from this city to Cincinnati.

It has been and is advocated that voters cast aside all selfishness and vote only with the view of the good
that will be accomplished for Rushville and Rush county by the extension of the traction line. It is urged that men let by-gones be by-gones,
and remember the value that will result from the extension instead of voting with only a narrow, biased,
selfish view.

The tax is so small that it will work no hardship on anyone that has to pay it. Taxation is always equal, and since the tax in this case will be only a few cents---with two years to pay it in---it will be correspondingly as small for the large taxpayer, because the more taxes one has to pay, the more capable he is of paying it.

Charles L. Henry, president of the
I. & C., has given his word publicly and privately on several occasions
that the extensions will not be made over a route where free right-of-way can not be obtained. This should be sufficiently expressive.

This will undoubtedly be the last opportunity for a road of any kind to open up the rich country in the southern half of Rush county. The plan to tap this district would certainly not have been offered now unless conditions had so arranged
themselves that the traction line
wanted to extend to Cincinnati.

One of the best arguments that has been presented in favor of the subsidy is that in reality it will cost the taxpayers nothing. Within two years after the cars are running on the extension, the I. & C. will already have been paid as much taxes
to the county on the extension alone
as will be voted Wednesday. For all the years after the first two, the I.
& C. will continue to pay the same rate of taxes on the extensions, as it is on its present holdings in the county, and that will go into the coffers of Rush county to be spent in running the county. So it is a good investment.

The precinct lines for the election
will be the same as at the general election last fall. It was feared that the voters might become confused
since the local option election when only the city was included, hence the publication of the places for voting:

Voters of precinct No. 1 will cast their ballots at the residence of Grant Gregg, 214 East Seventh street; precinct No. 2 at A. B. Irvin's garage back of his residence at the corner of Main and Tenth streets.

The voting place for precinct No.
3 will be at Mrs. Ford's residence,

50 DELEGATES AT K. OF P. MEETING

Other Delegations Are Expected to Swell Attendance at Closing District Session Tonight.

GRAND OFFICERS ARRIVE

James E. Watson Welcomes Visitors
This Afternoon and Harry Wade
Grand Secretary, Responds.

When the afternoon session of the district meeting of the Knights of Pythias lodge opened at three-forty-five o'clock, there were fifty visitors
and ninety local lodgemen in attendance.

A much larger crowd will be in attendance this evening, when the Rank of Page will be conferred on a dozen candidates. Five of the candidates will be Rushville men, one from Rushville and six from Hagerstown,
Wayne county.

Several delegations are expected
here late this afternoon so that the attendance of visitors will be swelled to more than a hundred. A large delegation was coming from Conners-
ville and Hagerstown.

Charles E. Wiker of Connersville,
district deputy grand chancellor,
presided at the afternoon session.
Following the invocation by George
C. Wyatt and music by an orchestra,
James E. Watson, past supreme representative, was to welcome the visiting delegates to Rushville. Harry Wade of Indianapolis, grand keeper
of records and seals, made the response.

After another selection by the orchestra, an address was made by John W. Gaither of New Albany, grand chancellor of Indiana, the highest K. of P. state official. The beginning of the afternoon session was held up until the arrival of the grand chancellor at 2:35 o'clock. He was accompanied by Charles N. Davis, a member of Colorado lodge, Knights of Pythias, at Denver, Colorado.

Another musical number was interspersed and extemporaneous talks were made. The program called for address by grand lodge officers who were present. After a solo by O. E.
Trusler, the session was to be closed
with short talks by representatives of each lodge in the district.

It was originally intended that the afternoon meeting should be open to be the public, but at the last minute
the plans were changed and visitors were barred. The evening session, which begins promptly at seven o'clock, will be open to Knights of Pythias only.

After the roll call of lodges this evening, committees will be appointed and motions and resolutions will be entertained. Secret work will be exemplified by John M. Lewis, grand instructor. The printed program says the next thing will be the answering of inquiries by the grand chancellor, followed by speeches for the good of the order. The degree
work will be conferred on the class of candidates next and the meeting will be closed with a good night address by Will M. Sparks.

The counties included in this district are: Union, Wayne, Henry, Randolph, Fayette and Rush.

ORANGE SCHOOL PLAY

Connersville Examiner: The Orange high school is making elaborate preparations to stage the excellent comedy, "The Colonel's Maid,"
in the high school auditorium at Orange, Wednesday evening, March 19. The play promises to be a treat and those who attend are assured a splendid entertainment. The high school orchestra will render music
for the occasion.

ARMBROKEN IN TWO PLACES

Charles Vanscyoc of Near Gwynne-ville Falls From Haymow.

Charles Vanscyoc, of near Gwynneville, suffered a most painful injury Saturday at the barn on his farm, when he accidentally fell out of the haymow, where he was throwing hay down for the live stock in the barn. He alighted on his left arm, and as a result the member was broken in two places, at the wrist
and the elbow. He was otherwise hurt, but not seriously. Dr. R. S.
McCray, of Morristown, was called to reduce the fractures.

RICHARD FLOYD LEFT SUDDENLY

Well Known Colored Man Disappeared From City, Leaving Sweetheart to Mourn Loss.

NO REASON CAN BE GIVEN

Richard Floyd, colored, left the city yesterday under rather mysterious circumstances and his friends here are wondering why he left without saying "good-bye." Floyd roomed at the home of John Ferguson and some time Saturday night he obtained his belongings and slipped out. He is supposed to have taken an early morning train for Cincinnati.

Floyd had been in this city for three years and was employed at the Allen Daniels barber shop. His leaving was as much a surprise to Mr. Daniels as it was to everyone else and no reason has yet been given for his leaving. Floyd was engaged to be married to Miss Maude Overton and the marriage was to have taken place the twenty-sixth of this month. Miss Overton was not aware of his intentions and refused to talk of the affair. Floyd made many friends here and his disappearance created considerable talk.

REMODELED CHURCH DEDICATED SUNDAY

Spiceland Friends Hold Special Services After Completing $4,000 Improvement on Building.

QUARTERLY MEETINGS' STAND

The remodeled Spiceland Friends church was formerly dedicated with ceremony Sunday. The congregation expended $4,000 in re-arranging the interior of the church and now it is thoroughly modern in every respect,
having an up-to-date heating system,
eight new class rooms, dining room,
kitchen and a raised floor, with an improved system of seats. The Rev.
Mr. Levering was in charge of the service.

The Friends quarterly meeting,
representing ten churches and over 2,000 communicants Saturday adopted resolutions against the liquor business in all forms. The meeting was quite well attended and occurred in the town hall, the new carpet in the remodeled church not having been laid.

Mrs. Heber Allen has received word of the death of her little nephew, Elder Cooper Zaring, who expired of tubercular meningitis at Indianapolis.
Mrs. Allen was called to his bedside
last week.

CASES SENT TO SHELBY COUNTY

Two Chaney Suits For $15,000 Each
Will be Tried Before Judge
Blair.

ANOTHER SENT TO DECATUR

John Ryon Wanted to Plead Guilty
But Prosecutor Wouldn't Nolle Intent Clause.

Judge Megee sent the two damage
suits of Carlton Chaney and Harrold Chaney against Dr. H. H. Elliott and Dr. John Paxton to Shelby county. A change of venue was asked Saturday
and by an agreement between the attorneys on both sides the two cases were sent to Shelby county. The court stated this morning that he would either send them to Shelby or Bartholomew counties and it did not take long for the attorneys to decide on Shelby county. Both cases are for $15,000 damages and local people would have liked to have heard
the evidence.

The case of John A. Gray against Jacob Parrish on a note demanding $80 was dismissed and the costs paid by the plaintiff. The damage suit of Nora Rardin against the Big Four railway was sent to Decatur county
on a change of venue. The plaintiff demands $345. The change of venue was granted several days ago but an agreement as to where it should be sent was not reached until today.

The costs in the Halterman divorce suit were ordered paid within ten days by the court. Elzine Halterman was granted a divorce from Harvey Halterman by Judge Blair during the November term of court providing that she pay the costs. The costs have never been paid and the court desires a settlement.

An effort was made this afternoon
to settle the state case against John Ryon. Ryon is charged with assault and battery with intent and was willing to plead guilty to the assault and battery charge if the state would nolle the intent clause. The prosecutor refused to take any action until the prosecuting witness, Charles Vogel appeared in court. The case is the outgrowth of the supervisor election last year in Richland township
in which Ryon was defeated for re-election. Vogel alleges that Ryon struck him when he attempted to take a road scraper, the property of the township from him. Ryon was indicted by the grand jury and the case has been pending several terms of court. Ryon was in court today ready to plead guilty to the assault charge. The case will now probably be tried since the state failed to nolle the intent clause.

Roy Jones was arraigned in court late Saturday afternoon on two charges of allowing minors to play pool. Jones pleaded guilty and paid the usual fines of five dollars and costs. He was arrested on grand jury indictment along with other pool
room men of the city.

POLITICIANS DO NOT APPROVE IT

New President's Attitude Toward Offices.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD ON

Naturally the Democratic Leaders in Washington Are Put Out by Mr. Wilson's Announcement Respecting the Pie Counter and, Needless to Say, They Do Not Attempt to Conceal Their Displeasure.

Washington, March 10.—When they learned that President Wilson has no intention of removing Republicans before the expiration of the terms for which they were appointed, Democratic office-seekers were again jarred. This rule will apply to all administrative positions where the incumbents have nothing to do with the shaping of policy. It affects postmasters, collectors, bank examiners and practically all of the government service outside of Washington.

Fourteen hundred Republican nominees named for appointment by President Taft in the closing days of his administration will not derive any benefit, of course, from the rule. In nearly all these cases, embracing appointments in every branch of the public service, Democrats will be named by President Wilson, but in this batch there is not nearly enough to go around.

While Democratic leaders are not talking out loud, they make no concealment of their chagrin over the present drift of things. They were inclined to be critical when the president nominated Edward G. Clarke of Iowa, a Republican, for reappointment to the interstate commerce commission and declared that while John M. Marble of California, who was appointed to the commission might be a Democrat, they expressed doubt that he worked at it very vigorously in recent years.

Another cause for dissatisfaction was the reappointment of Charles P. Neill as commissioner of labor. The Democrats admitted that Mr. Neill had administered his office efficiently and that he was popular with labor, but they insisted that a man equally as fit undoubtedly could have been found among the Democrats.

The first important change to be made by the Wilson administration in the department of justice will be the office of solicitor general. The announcement is made that the resignation of William H. Bullitt, Republican, of Kentucky, was formally tendered to the president on March 4 and was accepted on March 6, to take effect tomorrow. This was the first important resignation outside the cabinet list to be accepted by the new president. Other appointments which will be announced within the next few days will be in the offices of assistant attorney general, to succeed James A. Fowler of Tennessee, first in rank, and William H. Lewis, colored, of Massachusetts, sixth in rank. The office of another assistant attorney general, which was left vacant by the recent death of John Q. Thomson, also will be filled soon. So far there is no definite information concerning the identity of the men who will get these places.

SHOT POLICE CHIEF DEAD

Attempt to Raid Disorderly House at Monesson Marked by Tragedy.

Monesson, Pa., March 10.—Acting Chief of Police George Ettinger was shot dead at midnight at the door of a disorderly house which he and three other officers were raiding. Police are searching for Mosh Hough, a former policeman of Balie Vernon, who is believed to be hiding in an abandoned coal mine. A warrant has been sworn out for Hough's arrest on a charge of pandering, it being alleged his sixteen-year-old daughter was being kept in the resort where the murder occurred. Ettinger, after stationing his men around the house conducted by "Mother" Dudgeon, knocked at the rear door. The door suddenly was thrown open and a bullet was fired into the chief's heart. The slayer escaped by the front door, the officers on guard there having run to the rear on hearing the shot.

"Mother" Dudgeon and two inmates of the resort were arrested in Uniontown as they were boarding a train for Fairmont, W. Va. They are being held as accessories.

GOVERNMENT WILL TEST IT

The Friedmann Consumption "Cure" to Be Scientifically Investigated.

New York, March 10.—The two government surgeons, Dr. John P. Anderson and Dr. Arthur Smith, sent on here to look into Dr. Friedmann's cure for tuberculosis, chose the Mount Sinai hospital as the place for carrying on the government tests with tuberculous sufferers. The Berlin doctor gave his treatment to seven patients who were in the hospital.

Dr. Friedmann also supplied Dr. Anderson with samples of his culture, which the latter will take to Washington to be used in the exhaustive scientific tests which the hygienic laboratory of the public health service will at once institute.

ARBITRATORS BEGIN AN IMPORTANT TASK

Railway Wage Dispute Under Consideration.

New York, March 10.—The hearing in the dispute between the railroad firemen of fifty-two eastern railroads and their employes began at 10 o'clock this morning at the Waldorf Astoria. The hearing is before three arbitrators and is held under the Erdman act.

Elisha Lee, chairman of the conference committee of the railroads, which could not agree with the firemen's committee on changes on price and hours, represents the railroads and will present that side of the dispute.

W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, will perform a similar duty for the men. It is thought that at least two weeks will be required to hear both sides.

HE WILL HAVE TO BACK OUT

President Gomez Has Heard Again From Secretary Bryan.

Havana, March 10.—The American legation has sent another note to President Gomez from Secretary of State Bryan warning him against signing the amnesty bill. The newspapers say that President Gomez, in order to save his face, will deny that he ever signed the amnesty bill, although the reporters were informed at the palace that it had been signed Friday.

The provisions of the amnesty bill include more than 3,000 persons, of which hundreds are dishonest officials and common criminals. It seems almost certain that the amnesty bill will not go into effect.

Village's Serious Loss.

Carmel, Ind., March 10.—Fire, believed to have been caused by the premature explosion of safe blowers' materials in the postoffice here early Sunday morning, swept and destroyed the business district of the little town and entailed a loss estimated at $40,000. The entire business district of the city, composed of a quarter of a block of brick and frame buildings, was swept away by the blaze, while the citizens looked on, helpless to prevent the destruction.

Driven From the Pulpit.

York, Pa., March 10.—Because of charges of gross immorality preferred before a New York conference, where he formerly preached, the Rev. John Erler of Seven Valleys has been denied the right to preach in the West Pennsylvania synod. His letter of transfer to the Seven Valleys charge has been revoked and a committee of the New York synod, which investigated the charges, has recommended that he be reprimanded.

Bartender Held Under Bond.

Hartford City, Ind., March 10.—Ben Stone, a blacksmith, lies at his home with a fractured skull and Pat McFall, a bartender, is held under $500 bond on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill, the result of a saloon fight. Stone was drunk and McFall refused to sell him drinks. Stone attempted to assault the bartender with a beer mug, and McFall, throwing a glass, struck Stone above the eye.

Melancholy Turns on Gas.

Goshen, Ind., March 10.—George W. Prickett, fifty-three years old, discouraged because of financial troubles, committed suicide at his daughter's home here by going into the bathroom, turning on the gas and lying on the floor. Prickett was a real estate dealer. Since his wife died two years ago he has been melancholy.

Trains Meet in Collision.

Brownsville, Ind., March 10.—Two engines were demolished and one car of merchandise destroyed in a head-on collision of freight trains on the C. H. & D. railway at Lyons station, west of here. The trains in collision were local freight westbound, and an extra freight. Members of the train crews saved their lives by jumping.

HUERTA MAKING SECRET INQUIRY

Circumstances of Madero's Death Being Investigated.

A NEW REBELLION STARTED

The Troubles of War-Ridden Mexico Are Not Over by Any Means, According to the Latest Reports From the Capital, Which Tell of Violent Activities Against the Government of the New Dictator.

Mexico City, March 10.—The minister of war announces that rigid investigation is being made into the death of ex-President Francisco I. Madero and Pinos Suarez, the former vice president. The inquiry, however, is being carried on secretly in order to avoid stirring up excitement. It is reported that General Valosquez has completely defeated Governor Carranza in Anhlo. Heavy losses were sustained by the federalists, but Carranza's troops were completely decimated and Carranza was compelled to retreat toward the north.

A new rebellion has been started in the district of Saltepec in the state of Mexico, where 300 Maderistas volunteers headed by Jefe Politico Flores have attacked the federal forces. General Huerta has been asked to send reinforcements.

Telecan, a town of 5,000 inhabitants, which is the home of many prominent Mexican families, has been terrorized by the revolutionists, who have carried off ten women members of aristocratic families.

REBELS BUSY IN THE NORTH

Towns in Sonora Scenes of Some Bitter Fighting.

El Paso, Tex., March 10.—"It's too hot for me, I'm beating it," is the last word received from Nacoziari, Sonora, where the rebels attacked the small federal garrison after most of its men had been withdrawn to Agua Prieta to help defend that place. This message from an operator came after rebels had reached the heart of the town and Manager Jack Williams of the New York Phelps-Dodge company had been wounded by the flying bullets.

No attack has yet been made upon Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz., but as far as known the several hundred rebels near there in the mountains are still there, and this place and Cananea are so gravely in need of all available loyal troops that General Ojeda telegraphed to Colonel Kosterlitzky, the picturesque Polish commander of federal rurales, that he could not give him any men to help defend Nogales, Sonora, from the state troops now besieging it. These state troops destroyed several bridges on the Southern Pacific line between Nogales and Cananea.

DROWNED SOCIALIST'S VOICE

Juarez Not Permitted to Speak at Nice.

Paris, March 10.—The Socialists, led by M. Jaurez, tried to drown the voice of M. Etienne, minister of war, in the chamber of deputies on March 6, when the military bill was before that body. President Deschanel said at that time: "Let them continue; the country will judge."

The country's first judgment was rendered at Nice yesterday. M. Jaurez tried to deliver a lecture, but the audience would not allow him to proceed. It sang the Marseillaise and other national songs until he was obliged to quit the hotel at which the meeting occurred. The demonstration was renewed outside the hotel at which M. Jaurez is stopping.

Scott's Dismissal Recommended.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—Governor Sulzer's commission of inquiry which has been investigating state departments has submitted its report on the administration of the prison's department, of which Colonel J. F. Scott is the head. The dismissal of Colonel Scott is not only advised in the document, but his work is very severely criticised.

Another Dynamiter Set Free.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 10.—Henry W. Legleitner of Denver, one of the thirty-three men convicted at Indianapolis of conspiring to transport dynamite illegally, has been released from the federal penitentiary, his bond of $30,000, approved at Chicago, having arrived. Legleitner is the fifteenth man in the case to receive his liberty.

Jury Convicts the Conways.

Chicago, March 10.—Charles Conway, or Kramer, and his wife, Beatrice Ryall Conway, former burlesque actresses, were found guilty of the murder of Sophia Singer, Baltimore heiress and their benefactor, on Oct. 6, 1912. The jury recommended life imprisonment for Conway and fourteen years for his actress wife.

Prevented Women From Speaking.

London, March 10.—The militant suffragettes had another hard time of it Sunday. Meetings were scheduled for Hyde Park and Wimbledon common, but they were prevented by the men who are up in arms against the women. The meetings were prevented by angry crowds.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN WHEN THEY MEET?

Bryan-Clark Feud Interests Washington.

Washington, March 10.—The first meeting between Champ Clark, speaker of the house, and William J. Bryan, secretary of state, is awaited expectantly by everybody in official life.

These two leaders have not spoken to one another since long before the Baltimore convention. Friends of Champ insist that he was defeated for the presidential nomination by Mr. Bryan. They are enthusiastic in their hatred of the Nebraskan, and the feeling is known to be shared by the speaker. Messrs. Clark and Bryan occupied seats in the same section on the inaugural stand. So far as can be learned no sign of recognition passed between them.

Speaker Clark and Senator Stone of Missouri are going to make a trip to the White House today. It is said to be their purpose to present to President Wilson the names of certain Missourians who are willing to serve their country in the diplomatic corps. President Wilson announced last Wednesday that he would not receive office-seekers at the White House unless he might intervene on his own account, and that he would not discuss questions of appointments with those representing office-seekers. The president said that all such matters must be taken up in the first instance with the head of the department having jurisdiction over the respective offices. Mr. Bryan has the first say on all diplomatic appointments. Therefore if the rule is applied in the case of Mr. Stone and Mr. Clark they would be asked to continue on to the state department. It is a safe bet that Speaker Clark will not seek an interview with the secretary of state.

Big Four Switchman Killed.

Anderson, Ind., March 10.—Bert Chappel, unmarried, a switchman employed in the Big Four yards in South Anderson, was instantly killed when caught between a locomotive and a cut of cars.

Darrow Case a Mistrial.

Los Angeles, March 10.—The jury in the case of Clarence Darrow was unable to agree on a verdict and was discharged.

The University of Pennsylvania has 444 students working their way, who, in 1912, earned $23, 479.

RESTORE YOUR GREY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL AND NATURAL COLOR

Easily, Quickly, Surely, Safely, by Hay's Hair Health

Don't neglect your hair or allow it to become grey, thin, dry or lifeless. A beautiful head of natural colored, luxuriant radiant hair is priceless to every woman. Why not have it and keep it so? Why be prematurely grey and grow old-looking before your time? You Know Us

We are in business right here where you live. You are an acquaintance, neighbor or a friend of ours. This money-back-if-not-satisfied offer should prove the sincerity of our claims.

When we say we believe we have the best laxative and back up our statement with our unqualified promise to return without question or formality the money paid us for it, if it does not prove entirely satisfactory to you, we believe we are entitled to your confidence.

Our business success and prestige depend upon your confidence in us. We know we must secure and hold your confidence in order to get and keep your patronage. Therefore, we would not dare make this offer if we were not positively certain that we can prove our claims for

Rexall Orderlies

Our experience with them and the many reports we have received from those who have used them prove that they are really the most pleasing and satisfactory bowel remedy we know of.

Rexall Orderlies taste like candy. They are soothing and easy in action. They don't cause griping, nausea, purging or excessive looseness, as do the usual physic or laxative. Rexall Orderlies seem to act as a tonic-strengthening upon the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They promptly relieve constipation. They act to overcome the cause of constipation. They tend to eliminate the cause of sick headache, biliousness, bad breath, nervousness and other ills attendant upon inactive bowels.

Make Us Prove This

We want you to come to our store and get a package of Rexall Orderlies. Use a few or use up the entire box. Then, if you are not entirely satisfied, come back and tell us and we will promptly return the money you paid us for them.

You promise nothing—you sign nothing—you obligate yourself to us in no way whatever. We accept your mere word.

Don't you now believe that Rexall Orderlies are worthy of a trial? Could any offer be more fair?

Try Them at Our Risk

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, aged persons and for delicate people.

Rexall Orderlies come in vest-pocket tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c. Usual dose one tablet.

TRAGIC LOSS OF SCOTT PARTY IS SHOCK TO WORLD

Intrepid Captain and Four of His Men Had Reached Pole and Were Returning.

Story of Venture Is Told by Member of First Party.

NEWs of the appalling disaster which caused the death of Captain Robert F. Scott and four of his men recently shocked the world. It brings to timeliness the interesting story of the great venture into the antarctic regions. Those lost besides Captain Scott were:

Lieutenant E. R. Evans, R. N., second in command of the proposed western party.

Dr. E. A. Wilson, chief of the scientific staff, zoologist and artist.

Lieutenant H. R. Bowers, Royal Indian marine.

Captain L. E. G. Oates, in charge of ponies and dogs.

Captain Scott, with his associate party of scientists and big crew of sailors, had been on a far-reaching scientific quest, which included finding the south pole as merely an incidental. The venturers were found dead, the victims of a fierce blizzard which caught them on their return, after having had complete success in reaching the pole. The ship Terra Nova, which had taken the party into the antarctic and had gone to bring it back, discovered the tragedy.

Captain Scott arrived Jan. 18, 1912, at the south pole reached by Roald Amundsen. Amundsen had come to his final halt there one month and one day before. The Norwegian flag which he had planted there was found flying by Captain Scott. Documents found on the bodies of the dead recounted these facts.

This news came to London first in unconfirmed rumors and then in a cablegram from Oamaru, New Zealand, reporting that the Terra Nova had announced her early return by wireless "because of a grave calamity" to the Scott expedition.

A Continent of Death.

The antarctic has long been known as a continent of death. It has neither the flora nor the fauna of the arctic. An occasional penguin or a migratory seal may be found near the ocean, but the interior has always been a whited waste. Captain Scott and his men inhabited the continent longer probably than any other human beings, and it was as if one of the diabolical blizzards which swirl across the high plateaus had determined to exact from them before they could escape the price paid by all other life in its frozen area.

The circumstance is particularly tragic from the fact that Roald Amundsen only a month before had come and gone in weather so exceptionally balmy that the Norwegian has been inclined to discount the reports of earlier explorers of the blighting winds of the plateau. That he was somewhat earlier than Scott had something to do with it, but the choice of routes also contributed to the ease of Amundsen's journey.

Captain Scott selected the same route he had taken in his first expedition, 1902-4, and later by Shackleton, pushing up the mountains from McMurdo sound and reaching high altitude early in the march as well as exposing the party to the blizzards almost from first to last.

Report of a Member.

Writing to the London Times on Captain Scott's plans and purposes, Herbert G. Ponting, a member of the original western party, who returned some time ago, denied that Captain Scott was ever in the race for the south pole, but was leading a great scientific expedition and confined his attention to that object. This report from one of the explorers is interesting. It is as follows:

"Since my return to England from the antarctic, having completed my work of illustrating Captain Scott's expedition, I have found that much misapprehension exists in regard to the objects of that enterprise. The popular idea that there has been a race to the south pole is an error. Captain Scott has not been racing, nor has he been engaged upon a mere dash to the pole. He is leading a great scientific expedition—perhaps the greatest ever sent out from England—and the reaching of the south pole was but an incident in the extensive program of work mapped out. To race would have been to jeopardize the success of the main objects of the expedition, and Captain Scott would not allow the presence of a rival in the field to move him from the course which he considered wisest and best.

"Within four months of our departure from New Zealand he had lost nine ponies out of nineteen, nearly half the total transport on which he was chiefly relying. It would be impossible to overstate the seriousness of this loss. Had two or three more ponies succumbed it is doubtful whether the main objects of the expedition could ever have been achieved, as in this work success is entirely dependent on the transport of a certain amount of food. It was principally due to this misfortune that Captain Scott did not start on the polar journey till Nov. 1. His original plans provided for leaving Cape Evans on Oct. 1, but October is a very cold and tempestuous month, and to have exposed the remaining transport animals to the additional hardships which this weather would have entailed would have involved too grave a risk. He therefore reluctantly postponed his start for a month. That month probably lost for Captain Scott the honor of being first at the south pole.

Not Engrossed in Polar Quest.

"Among the congratulations to Captain Amundsen on his achievement those of Captain Scott will be the heartiest of all. More than any other man can be appreciate what it means to press such an enterprise to success. Captain Scott himself would have welcomed October's hardships, for that is a word I have never heard either him or any member of the landing party use, but he would not allow any really unnecessary exposure and risk to the animals he was dependent on to mar his chance of reaching the desired goal, as failure to get to the pole last season would have meant also the ruin of all this season's plans. He told me that he was much more interested in the work mapped out for this season and considered it of greater geographical importance than reaching the pole.

"When the last supporting party, led by Lieutenant (now Commander) Evans, left Captain Scott on Jan. 4 the polar party were only 145 miles from the goal of their hopes and in excellent health and spirits and were traveling at the rate of fifteen miles a day. All being well, the pole should therefore have been reached about Jan. 15 last. Caches of food had been made every sixty miles along the route. There was ample for the explorers to enjoy full rations on the whole return journey. The party were expected back at Hut Point, fifteen miles from Cape Evans, where the Terra Nova was waiting for them, about March 15, but on March 5 the sea was freezing so rapidly that Lieutenant Pennell, then commanding the ship, considered it unwise to remain longer, owing to the hourly increasing risk that the ship would be frozen in. It is unfortunate that we were unable to remain a week or ten days longer, as we should almost certainly have brought back with us the news that Captain Scott had reached the pole about Jan. 15. He and his companions probably returned to winter quarters before the end of March. No further news can be received from him until the Terra Nova again returns from the far south, about the end of next March. The members who accompanied Captain Scott to the pole are Dr. Edward Wilson, Captain L. E. G. Oates, Lieutenant Bowers and Petty Officer Evans.

"Captain Scott has tremendous staying power and any amount of energy of the right kind—the kind that sets a steady pace and keeps it up all day. If love of his work can pull him through we shall hear next year that he has not failed to accomplish all to which he has set his hand."

Captain Scott's Life.

Captain Robert Falcon Scott, R. N., C. V. O., F. R. G. S., commander of England's most important antarctic expedition, was born at Devonport

England, on June 6, 1868. After attending school at Stubbington House, Fareham, he entered the royal navy at the age of fourteen. As a cadet on board the training ship Britannia he gained some distinction as one of the cadet captains. When Scott's course on the Britannia was completed he was sent to the Cape of Good Hope naval station. He served for two years as a lieutenant on the Rover, which was in the British Pacific service.

The character of his service qualified him to take a special course of training, and as a four, one and two man in his examinations he had the privilege of choosing the subject in which he wished to specialize. He decided to take up torpedo work, and after qualifying in this he received assignments to one ship after another for eight years. After gaining an extra stripe Lieutenant Scott was appointed as a torpedo lieutenant to H. M. S. Majestic, a battleship of the first class and flagship of the channel squadron. His assignment to the Majestic marked the turning point of his career, for his commanders were Sir H. Stephenson and Prince Louis of Battenberg, two arctic enthusiasts who had served under Sir Leopold McClintock on a North-west passage expedition.

Had to Help Support Family.

About this time it became necessary for Scott to help with the support of his family, and to see what possibilities there were for adding to his lieutenant's salary he went to London. There he met by chance Sir Clements Markham, chairman of the Royal Geographical society, who had previously shown interest in Scott. He suggested to the young lieutenant that he apply for the command of the Discovery, which was then being fitted out to explore the little known antarctic continent.

Scott was chosen from a long list of applicants. He was then twenty-nine years old, healthy, strong and well built. For a year he worked over the provisioning and equipping of his ship and over the selection of his crew and scientific staff. On July 28, 1900, the whaler Discovery left the Thames with forty men, prepared for an expedition to last three years if necessary. The ship reached New Zealand after a rough time in the "roaring forties" and thence sailed for the antarctic regions. Two years of hardship resulted in the conquering of 500 miles more of antarctic snow and ice than any of his predecessors covered.

Upon his return to England many honors were bestowed upon him. The admiralty raised him to the rank of captain, making him the youngest captain in the navy, and the late King Edward made him commander of the Victorian Order. Medals were given him by the Royal Geographical society, Royal Scottish Geographical society and American, Swedish, Danish, Philadelphia and Antwerp Geographical societies. The story of the expedition was published by Captain Scott in "The Voyage of the Discovery," and the two volumes were widely read.

Gets High Post.

The admiralty allowed him three months in which to give lectures, the hardest task he ever undertook, so Captain Scott said. Returning to service in the navy, he was assigned to the intelligence department of the admiralty.

For six years he continued at his desk, but finally "the call of the ice" could no longer be resisted, and he set out to raise funds for fitting out another expedition. After surmounting many difficulties Captain Scott secured the necessary financial assistance and had his expedition ready to start for his ultimate goal, the south pole.

When Captain Scott sailed he left behind a wife, whom he had married two years before, and an eight-months-old son, Peter, "the image of his father." The little fellow's baby idea of his father was a photograph, which he would hug and cover up, saying, "Keep daddy warm."

When word was received by Mrs. Scott last April that her husband intended to remain longer than at first expected she said: "I am not worried about the captain's safety. On the other hand, I am very glad that he availed himself of the opportunity to remain in the south until the objects of his expedition, which was one of scientific research, are accomplished." Only last week Mrs. Scott sailed with her baby from San Francisco for New Zealand, expecting to greet her husband on his arrival there.

Mrs. Scott is a sculptress, and shortly before the start of the fatal expedition she modeled the captain's clean cut features, his broad shoulders and deep chest. His whole bearing bespoke a man of indomitable energy and courage.

Soft music and prayer will be used in the police court at Danville, Ky., to break down stubborn wills of prisoners. Recently a piano was placed in the courtroom by citizens, and it is the plan of Chief of Police Wood to have soft music played while the accused are testifying and then a dirge when sentence is pronounced.

This method of procedure, it is said, will prove effective with keepers of "blind tigers" and other resorts. Heretofore this class of criminals have proceeded to offend again as soon as released.

Season for Tree Butchers.

The warning sent out by Chas. C. Deam, secretary of the state board of forestry, concerning the butchering of beautiful shade trees is especially timely as the season is at hand when men begin to undo nature's handiwork most unartistically.

The board secretary says that there is rarely ever a valid reason for "topping" a tree. It has come to be an American habit, he says, to regard it as a custom the same as that of Chinese women binding their feet. The operation condemns itself in its practice and every effort should be made to spare shade trees the ruthless operations which are done under the guise of "pruning." Nothing adds to the beauty and comfort of a city for the money expended as do shade trees.

Shade trees should be cared for so as to preserve their natural form, Mr. Deam says. This not only adds beauty but prolongs their life. A vigorous and symmetrical tree is inspiring and elevating, but when the same tree is "topped," it is shorn of its beauty and it merely excites one's sympathy as would anything else that is crippled or helpless. The ugly stubs made by "topping" a tree never heal over and decay which much shortens the life of the tree begins at once.

The pruning of shade trees should begin when they are planted. Practically all of the pruning should be confined to the removal of the lowest branches until the top is about ten feet above the ground. If the terminal forks, one part should be cut off and so should branches in the crown that interfere with one another.

It is a grave mistake to permit a shade tree to head too low, as is common with the Norway maple. When the head is low it obstructs the view, prevents a free circulation of the air and its shade prevents a growth of grass about the tree. These objections are usually not apparent until the branches are large and when their removal would destroy the symmetry of the tree and leave large wounds to start decay.

When a branch is removed the cut should be made smooth and as close to the axis of support as possible. Never leave a stub, no matter if it is only a half an inch long. A shade tree is so valuable that it is entitled to a careful pruning. Do the work correctly, even if it takes a little longer time. Branches that are too heavy to be supported with the hand should be removed by first sawing on the under side about ten inches from the base until the saw "tightens," then saw on the top side a few inches farther from the base until the branch falls. Then remove the stub, which can be supported by the hand. This will prevent the branch from tearing off a great piece of the body of the tree, which is so frequently observed, when it falls.

A book on how and when to prune shade trees can be obtained free by writing to the State Forester at Indianapolis, Ind.

The meeting of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association, which was announced for March 6 and 7, and at which Senator W. S. Kenyon, of Iowa, was to make an address, has been postponed because of the inability of the Senator to be present on the dates designated. It is expected the meeting will be held soon and further announcement is awaited from President Fesler, of the association.

CLARK'S POSITION.

(Newcastle Courier.)

With Woodrow Wilson, who defeated him after he had received and held many ballots a majority of the votes in the national convention, safely ensconced in the presidential chair, and with W. J. Bryan, who dominated the convention and dictated the nomination of Wilson, the ranking member of the cabinet as secretary of state, the question as to what use Champ Clark will make of his position as speaker of the house is being discussed. It has been hinted that he will seek revenge by blocking administration measures. Clark denies any such intention, and it is natural that he should. He could not very well afford to advertise any such purpose even if he entertained it in his mind. But Clark is human. It is known that he felt deeply chagrined and humiliated over being cheated out of nomination that he believed he ought to have had. But, as a politician, he understands the value of outward pretense as a cloak for inward design, and will bide his time.

Congratulations.

Editor Republican: I want to express my heartiest congratulations that our glorious county capital is soon to be free from the blight of the saloon. God bless the courageous men and devout women who braved the inclemency of the weather and worked so nobly. Now let the gents who have been piling up the dollars from the lovers of drink get out and do a little honest work that has sweat in it, to sustain their families. If no other business offers, could they not plant a patch of potatoes or cabbage? We will gladly see them at it as spring warms up, and cheer them again and again. We will now be proud of Rushville.

CROP PROSPECTS ARE VERY GOOD

As Compared With Last Yields This Year Are Expected to be Exceptional.

FRUIT IS IN GOOD CONDITION

Chances For Wheat Are About 100 Per Cent Better Than They Were in 1912.

It is a little early to talk about crop prospects for the coming year, but as the first week of March has come and gone, and old reliable St. Patrick's day, the time for planting gardens will soon be here, a little discussion of the question might not be far out of the way.

All of the crop experts in Rushville and Rush county are of one opinion on one point, and that is that the prospects on March 10th, this year, are much better than they were on March 10th of 1912.

A year ago the wheat crop had been frozen in the ground and practically all of the fruit had been killed by the extreme weather.

This year, up to date, the weather has been unusually mild, excepting the past two or three weeks, for an Indiana winter.

According to persons who have been all over the county, the chances for wheat this year are about a hundred per cent better than last year. The wheat looks vigorous in most all sections of the county, and with favorable weather from now on, there ought to be a good yield.

The wheat crop was an utter failure in Rush county last year, many of the farmers plowing their fields over, or using them for pasture.

Local nurserymen and fruit growers report that the outlook for a fruit crop in this vicinity is good. In fact, we may even expect a bumper crop in all lines, even down to the luscious strawberry, providing of course, that nothing in the way of damaging weather visits this section from this date on. The recent warm weather coaxed the buds a little on the peach boughs and made them start to swell, and should extreme cold weather set in again the peach crop would no doubt be short. But with all the early signs of spring in the air, there's hope.

The prospect for an apple crop, it is said, is very good. Last fall was favorable to the crop in the development of buds and the winter which is now in the passing has handed out nothing detrimental. Some freak of weather could yet cut the crop short, but as the apple is a hardy fruit, the occurrence is hardly likely.

The cherry is almost a sure thing, especially the early ones, and there had been nothing yet this season to injure the crop. Then the plum, especially the sour ones, will bear in spite of frost or drought, and the poor and the smaller fruits all promise to give bountiful yield.

Perhaps the most trying period for the little strawberry is yet to come. The crisis in this favorite plant comes a little later than this when the heavy spring frosts come. If the strawberry does not run unexpectedly into something like this a large crop of the fruit may be expected again.

There are but few grapes raised in this locality but they are in demand, what there is of them. Fruit growers say the outlook for the grape is favorable. Usually, the cold weather of winter kills the vines back to two buds. The vines are generally trimmed back that far, any way, but the weather has not even put them back that far as yet. Late spring frosts sometimes affect grapes and even when the bloom has come and little grapes have set on they are killed. However, the grape is one of the plant family which has the peculiar power of coming back and even though the frost may nip the buds they will put out again when coaxed forth by warm succeeding sunshine.

About the only thing that hurts the sour gooseberry is the worm crop, which eats the bushes up, leaves and all. It is yet too early to determine what the worms will do.

NEW ELEVATOR MANAGER.

Lewisville Traveler: V. O. Chance, who, for twelve years, was the manager of the Mays elevator, has accepted the position as manager of the local Farmers Elevator, which transfer of title was made by D. J. Cope to the company Saturday. The Farmers Elevator Co., have made no mistake in selecting Mr. Chance as manager of the plant, as he comes here well recommended and the citizens of Mays regret his leaving the Center township metropolis.

The Ladies of St. Paul M. E. church will hold an apron sale and exchange in the Logan room on Main street next Saturday. Every lady is expected to donate to this exchange.

You Can Take Defective Material and Build a Buggy

Then you can take putty and paint and by properly applying these two articles change the appearance of this defective vehicle so it will deceive even the shrewdest of vehicle buyers. We have found out by experience that there is only one test that never fails to expose defective material and unskilled workmanship. Manufacturers have told us that their vehicles were built of a certain kind of material and by men who understood how to build buggies and in the wind-up we found they had misrepresented the matter to us. We are going to protect the interests of our customers and sell them exactly what we tell them we are selling them, and have adopted the plan illustrated below to determine for ourselves what each vehicle we sell is made of. A vehicle that will stand a test of this kind must be built of material that has no flaws and by men who have had experience enough to know where to re-enforce each part of the vehicle in order to give strength and make it wear.

It is your duty to find out what is under the paint of every vehicle you buy and if you buy it of us you can certainly have that privilege. We want you to come to our opening on MARCH 14th and 15th, and let us show you buggies that are built to give road service by men who know how to build them.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are The Voices of Rushville People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Rushville people are in this chorus. Here's a Rushville case.

S. Bebout, 404 W. First St., Rushville, Ind., says:

"Doan's Kidney Pills are just as represented and I am glad to recommend them. I had pains through my back and kidneys and the action of my kidneys was irregular. When I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I did so and they soon brought relief."

Mr. Bebout is only one of many Rushville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Bebout had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. What mattered the means?—there was but one great thing. And the great things must outweigh the small. He was a man of power. He had been born for success. He was—

He stood, half in the shadow, hesitating. Then he heard other feet approaching him slowly. His wife, Virginia, came and took him by the arm and had him within the door; closed it back of him; and, leaving him, advanced to where Halsey stood. She took Halsey by the hand. . . . It seemed a singular thing to Rawn, this performance; in fact, almost improper, if the truth were known. . . . So it seemed to John Rawn's mind, a trifle clouded with distress and drink.

"Well," said she apologetically; and held her peace as he frowned and and looked at her dumbly.

"Well!" he broke out at last; "I'm back again!—You're here, I see." This last to Halsey.

They two stood and regarded him without comment. Halsey kept his eye on Rawn's hand, expecting some sudden movement for a weapon. He was incredulous that any man could sustain Rawn's attitude toward him. War, and nothing but war, seemed inevitable between himself and Rawn, the man whom he had wronged, the man who had wronged him.

"I suppose—I see—" began Rawn clumsily, after a while. "Of course, you have probably been here all the time, Charley. I came back as soon as I could. I've been having all kinds of trouble in St. Louis and New York. Everything's all gone to pieces."

They did not answer him, and he shuffled.

"Have you anything to say?" he demanded of his wife; "has Mr. Halsey—Charley—agreed?—Have you persuaded him to—"

"You wish to know whether I have done what I was told to do—is that it?" she demanded of him coldly.

"Yes; have you?"

"I have. Here is Mr. Halsey. I have kept my word. You have seen. I told you I could bring him in, bound hand and foot. Kiss me, Charley," she cried. "Oh, kiss me!" And he did kiss her. Cold, white, hand in hand, dead, they then faced him again.

"Is it true?" began Rawn. His eyes lighted up suddenly. "He has agreed?"

Halsey broke in now. "It is true, Mr. Rawn," said he. "I love her. I love your wife; I can't help it. I have told her so. You see."

"You love her!" John Rawn burst out into a great, croaking laugh. "You love her? I say, that's good! That's good news to tell me, isn't it? Why—I sent her—I used her, to make you love her! You see reason now at last, do you?—every man does at last—every man has his price. You'll go back to work to-morrow? There's a lot to do, but we can save it all yet. We can whip them, I tell you—we'll get everything back in our own hands before to-morrow night!"

"But Mr. Rawn! Listen! You do not know! Surely you do not understand—"

"Understand? What is there left to understand? Didn't I see you both just now? Didn't you—right now—haven't you got to come across now? Hasn't she done what I told her to do; what she said she'd do? I told her to bring you back to us again, and she's done it, hasn't she?"

"But come on, now," he resumed, as though reluctantly—"I suppose we've got to go up there—Grace? Too bad. . . . But I wanted to see Jennie first."

"My God!" whispered Virginia Rawn, shuddering. "Oh, my God!"

"Rawn," said Halsey directly, abandoning even any pretense at courtesy; "the end of the world has come for you, for us all. My wife is dead—she's lucky! My child is dead, too, and that's lucky. It had no life to live, crippled as it was. She killed herself and the baby. I don't seem to care as I ought to care. And now your wife has told me that she loves me. It's true! She doesn't love you; she never has. She has not taken me a prisoner any more than I have her. We're both in this to-night. We're both to blame. But, at the bottom, you are to blame—for all of this."

"Of course! Of course!" smiled John Rawn sardonically. "What would you expect? I am sorry. But I'll never tell any one about it, you can depend on that!"

"You'll never tell!" went on Charles Halsey slowly. "You'll never need to tell. But here's what I want to tell you, once more. Whatever this is—and it's about bad enough—it's come because of you. You—you were the cause of this!"

"You blame me—why, what do you mean!" burst out John Rawn. "Where have I been to blame, I'd like to know! What do you mean, young man?"

"Every word I have told you, and more than I can tell you. You'll not think—you don't dare to face the truth; but there's the real truth. If you can't understand that, take what you can understand. Your wife isn't to blame—I'm to blame. Love is to blame. I love her. I've done this."

"You have done—what?"

"I've taken your wife away from you, can't you understand, you fool? She's going to marry me as soon—"

"Jennie!—what's this fellow talking about?" The veins on John Rawn's forehead stood high and full.

"He is only telling you the truth," she said calmly, wearily. "I don't care one penny whether or not you know it! I'm tired! I'm done with all this sort of thing! Yes, I'm going to marry him as soon as we can get away. As soon as it's decent, if anything's decent any more!"

"And you love him, you'll rob me, you'll leave me—you'll—why, are you all crazy? What are you talking about? When I've given you everything you've got—when you were so much to me! Jennie!"

"No, no!" she raised a hand. "Don't talk about that! It's all over now."

She tore at her throat, at her fingers, heaved up in his hands the gems she wore even then, the gems she had put upon her person to protect them from uncertain servants, gems which left her blazing like some waxen queen in her tomb—white, dead, enjeweled.

"Take them!" she cried. "I don't want them." She went on, piling his hands full of glittering, flashing things. He stood gazing at her, stupefied. Then, slowly, the burden of years, the burden of business failure, and lastly this—the burden of the worst of man's discomfiture, the worst of a man's possible losses—began to weigh down upon him. He shortened visibly; shriveled; drooped.

They had no pity for him. Youth has no pity for age, love no pity for a mate's inefficiency; but after all some sort of contempt, at least, seemed due him.

"Rawn," said Halsey, "it's pretty hard. We're all of us paying a hard, heavy price for what we thought we had. But we can't evade it, any part of it. It was your fault that Grace left me. We were going to part. You sent your wife after me, as you call it. I suppose Grace found that out. You know what she did then. I said I blame you, and so I do. But I was going to get a divorce—"

"Divorce!—you divorce my daughter! John Rawn's daughter!"

"Did you not divorce her mother—you, yourself?"

"But I loved—my wife—I mean, this woman—Jennie, here!"

"So do I love her; more than you do or ever will know how to do! What you have done we'll do. Is it worse for us than it was for you? What's the difference?"

"But she's my wife! Why, Jennie!" He held out a hand to her.

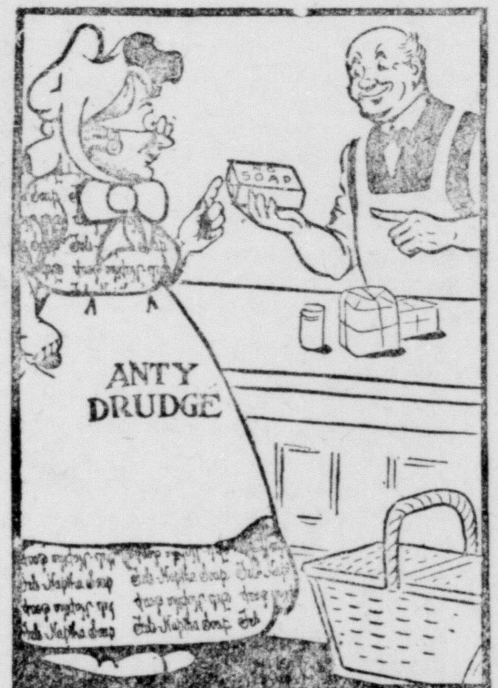

"So was Laura Rawn your wife, my wife's mother," went on Halsey. "What's the difference?"

Virginia Rawn stepped between the two. "I'm as much to blame as any one of us all," she said quietly. "I sold out to you, didn't I, Mr. Rawn—down there in New York? I married you, didn't I? Very well, what you did, I have done. No more, and not without equal cause. I love him. I'm going to marry him. You and I are going to be divorced—if we were not I'd go to him anyhow. I hate you, I loathe you! My God! how I detest and loathe the sight of you! Go away—go away—go away from us! You're not any part of a man!"

"It's true!" gasped John Rawn to himself. "My God, it's true! She said that—I heard her—to me? What have I done to deserve this? . . . I ought to kill you," said he to Halsey slowly.

"Of course you ought," said Halsey. "If you were any portion of a man you would. But you've tried that, and you know where you ended."

"But Halsey—Charley!—you don't stop to think!" began Rawn pitifully.

Grocer—"There's your butter, tea and baking powder. Now, as to soap, I want you to try this instead of Fels-Naptha. It's said to be the best in the market."

Anty Drudge—"Mr. Grocer, unload this basket. I don't know but what you've given me a fraud butter or tea or a hurtful baking powder. But I do know you are trying to fool me into buying an imitation of Fels-Naptha Soap. After this I'll go where I can trust the grocer to give me what I ask for."

Fels-Naptha Soap does the work of loosening dirt from clothes in cool or lukewarm water instead of leaving it for you to do on the washboard. With Fels-Naptha there's no backache, no long bending over the washtub. Your clothes will wear twice as long, because boiling or scalding softens the fiber and rots the clothes. And they'll be whiter and cleaner.

Use Fels-Naptha Soap according to the simple directions on the red and green wrapper.

Pale, Run-down, Aneamic—Restored to Health by Vinol

Miss Katherine Burns of Newton, Mass., says: "About six months ago I was in a run-down condition and my blood was very poor. I had taken several medicines prescribed by physicians, but they seemed to do me no good. Finally Vinol was recommended, and from the first bottle I noticed a great improvement. I have taken six bottles and I feel strong and as well as ever."

"You will go back—you will go back to the factory, in the morning? You will help me pull it together, won't you?"

"No, not one step back to the factory—never in the world! I'm done with that. I'm going away somewhere, and she's going with me, I don't know where. Let some one else work out what you thought we could do, and let some one else take the consequences—it's not for me. You've got what you earned—I suppose I'll get what I've earned, too. I don't care about that any more."

Rawn could not answer the young man as he went on slowly, dully, bitterly. "If I've been traitor to any of my own creed I reckon God'll punish me. Very well; I will take my punishment on my shoulders. I've no apologies to make in a place like this. Haven't you gone up—oughtn't we to go up now—upstairs?" he added at last. He put down Virginia's arms from his shoulders; for once more she had come to him.

Rawn sighed. "I suppose I must go up there," he said vaguely.

He turned and walked away, heavy, stumbling.

PERU PROMISES TO END CRUELTY

Minister to United States Gives Assurance of Reform.

FOLLOWS FULLER'S REPORT.

American Had Made Searching Investigation and Disclosed Long List of Atrocities Worked Upon Natives in Putumayo Rubber District—Murder, Flogging and Torture Were System.

Peru will undertake to put a stop to the atrocities perpetrated on the Indians in the Putumayo rubber country and to prevent repetitions of the outrages. This promise is contained in a communication from Senor Pezet, Peruvian minister to the United States, to the department of state.

The assurances of the Peruvian government come in the wake of investigations conducted by Stuart J. Fuller in behalf of the United States and Sir Roger Casement, British consul general at Rio de Janeiro, who journeyed to the very heart of the Putumayo jungles and then submitted reports to their respective governments.

Mr. Fuller's report, together with a message from President Taft, was sent to congress recently. The state department was furnished with a mass of information by the special envoy, but only the essential facts were given to congress. The report sent to congress says:

Beginning in the year 1904, the firm of Arana Bros., which later became the Peruvian Amazon company, imported a number of Barbados men, who had been recruited in the island of Barbados, with whom they entered into a contract to serve as laborers in the Putumayo for a term of two years. The number of men so imported amounted altogether to about two hundred.

Upon arrival at their destination they were armed with rifles and a large supply of cartridges and were dispatched through the forests to different parts of the region, with a view to enslaving various tribes of docile, or at any rate of easily subdued, Indians who dwelt along the courses of the Carapurana and upper and middle Igaraparana rivers, and occupied the country between those rivers besides the neighboring regions.

Murder, Flogging and Torture.

In the exercise of this illegal compulsion, frequently accompanied by gross outrages upon the Indians, including murder, flogging and torture, the company, through its agents, forced the Barbados men actively to participate. Threats and in some cases violence were used as a means of compelling them to commit illegal acts upon the Indians in order to induce the latter to labor or bring in india rubber upon their backs from the remote districts.

The Barbados men themselves complained that they had frequently suffered ill treatment at the hands of the agents of the company and that for long periods their food consisted of what they could get for themselves or obtain by some means from the Indians.

After describing conditions in the rubber regions the report to congress sums up Mr. Fuller's findings as follows:

There is evidence that the company has mended its ways to some extent, at least for the present. All of the Indians present looked well fed and vigorous, although a considerable number in various parts bore the scars of old floggings. They are a small people, not overstrong physically, and, whatever they may have been in past generations, they are not now, and were not at the time the atrocities took place, wild, untamable cannibals, but, on the contrary, mild, docile, inoffensive and childlike, just as described by Sir Roger Casement.

As the region is so remote from the capital and from all governmental authority, the whole zone is apparently left to the company to manage as it sees fit, notwithstanding the occurrences of the past. Up to the present the administration of justice throughout the region has been in the hands of the company's section chiefs. Several of these admitted that they had put both Indian and white employees in stocks for minor offenses.

System of Peonage.

The labor of the Indians is secured by a system of peonage based on advances of merchandise. Payment is made for this labor; but, nevertheless, it is nothing more or less than forced labor. The temptation to abuse is imminent and strong, especially since the white staff is offered a bonus for vigilance.

Considering the inaccessibility of the region, the heavy export tax and the inferior quality of the rubber, it is difficult to see how the enterprise can be made to pay without harsh treatment of the Indians. The amount of rubber produced by the company continues to increase in spite of the fact that the native population of the district has greatly decreased. It is questionable whether, in the absence of governmental machinery in the zone, the withdrawal of the company would better the lot of the Indians, for the territory would then be thrown open to freebooting expeditions and slave raiders.

LEGISLATURE IS ALMOST AT END

Will Expire By Limitation at Midnight.

THE LAST STUMBLING BLOCK

With the Immediate Prospect of the Conferees on the Appropriations Bill Reaching an Amicable Understanding Today, There Will Be Nothing in the Way of an Orderly Dissolution of the Sixty-Eighth General Assembly.

Indianapolis, March 10.—The only word that has come from the new conference committee on the regular appropriations bill is: "We will reach an agreement before adjournment." It is believed the new conferees will report back a recommendation for recession by the senate from practically every one of the salary increases for state officials included in the senate amendments. The house conferees may agree to some minor increases, but the two members of the committee are included among the house "standpaters" on salary grabs and are expected to insist to the last for the retention of the appropriations bill as it passed the house.

Such an agreement followed by the passage of the appropriations bill will remove the only stumbling block that faces the legislature. So certain are the leaders that an agreement will be reached that all talk of a special session, which would be necessary if the bill were not passed before midnight tonight, when the Sixty-eighth general assembly will expire by limitation, has vanished and an orderly sine die adjournment is expected.

No Centennial Celebration.

The house killed Senator Stotsenburg's bill providing for a centennial commission, killed a similar bill by Representative Tingle and refused to suspend the rules for a vote on a new bill, a duplicate of Stotsenburg's measure providing for a referendum vote on a $2,000,000 memorial building, which Representative Engle introduced. This action precludes any centennial legislation this session. No other session of the legislature will meet until 1915, when it will be too late to prepare adequately for such a celebration.

After having been voted down three times, a bill to legalize licenses held by 169 saloon keepers of Gary was passed in the house with one vote to spare. Whether the governor will receive the bill and sign it, or whether he will exercise his constitutional right of refusing to receive it since it was passed within two days of adjournment, was a subject for considerable discussion.

The bill to permit reassignment of rooms in the statehouse by the governor, secretary of state and auditor of state as a special committee, passed by a vote of 63 to 13, with an amendment to permit this committee to rent rooms outside the statehouse for such boards and commissions as may not be provided with space in the capitol. The house voted down the bill providing for a commission to codify the mining laws of the state.

For a New Constitution.

The Stotsenburg resolution proposing amendments to the state constitution similar to those contained in the "Tom Marshall constitution case," now before the United States supreme court, was passed in the house after it had been amended to include a provision for a double session of the general assembly. This amendment, to be submitted to the voters at the next general election, provides for two sittings of the legislature—a thirty-day session to receive bills, followed by an adjournment of sixty days during which time proposed bills may be considered by members and their constituents, and then a second session of thirty days in which to vote upon the bills.

With a substantial majority in the house, the tax levy increases desired by Governor Ralston and designed to add approximately $1,400,000 to the state's income during the next two years, were passed in the form of a bill introduced under suspension of the rules. The bill increases the tax levy for educational institutions 4½ cents, the levy for the benevolent institutions 5 cents and reduces the general tax levy of 9 cents to 7 cents. The net increase is 7½ cents.

The bill providing for an election in Jennings county to decide whether the county seat shall be moved from Vernon to North Vernon was passed in the senate, 38 to 4.

WIFE MAKES GRAVE CHARGE

Says Her Husband Tried to Burn Her to Death.

Evansville, Ind., March 10.—Frank Whittaker is in jail to answer a serious charge preferred by his wife, who alleges that he tried to burn her in her bed. According to her story Whittaker came to the house where she was sleeping, poured coal oil on the bed and about the room and set it on fire. She was awakened, jumped from under the burning bedclothing and escaped with slight burns. The house was destroyed. The police say there was coal oil on the man's clothing when they arrested him.

PRESIDENT HAS NOT PICKED OUT CHURCH

Washington Presbyterians On
the Anxious Seat.

Washington, March 10.—Attending church in the morning and going for an auto ride in the country in the afternoon, the new president and his family observed the Sabbath quietly. After dinner, which was served at 7 o'clock, the president spent the evening with his family, retiring early in accordance with his custom.

It was the general expectation that President Wilson would make it known yesterday at which church he would worship during his residence in Washington. Many presidents have attended the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, a stone's throw from the White House, and a multitude waited in vain before that edifice for the presidential party. Anxious to avoid the crowds, the president, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Eleanor Wilson changed their plans at the last minute and went to the Central Presbyterian church, a mile or so from the White House.

The pastor of the Central Presbyterian, Rev. Dr. Taylor, was as much surprised as anyone when the Wilsons were ushered into a pew. He had not been advised of the honor which the president was to pay his church. He did not refer to the executive's presence in his sermon, which was exactly what Mr. Wilson desired. Dr. Taylor said later that President Wilson had not intimated to him that he would attend the Central Presbyterian regularly.

With the final choice of a church home by President Wilson deferred, Presbyterian churchmen in Washington are still in an anxious frame of mind. The desirability of including among the worshippers of a Washington church the president of the United States and his family possesses something more than the pride of ownership. The material increment to a congregation from this connection is vast. The churches of the national capital which have numbered presidents among their regular worshippers have without exception gained thereby permanent standing and substantial financial foundation.

The power of the president in carrying with him prosperity to a church was never more clearly exemplified than when President Taft took office. The Unitarian church in Washington had always been on a firm footing. No sooner had President Taft joined the congregation, however, than the usual boom started. A huge building fund was gathered, and one of the last acts of Mr. Taft's career as president was his participation in laying the cornerstone of the new Unitarian church in the fashionable heart of Washington, for an edifice which will cost when completed more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Vice President and Mrs. Marshall passed unrecognized through the throng gathered outside the New York Avenue Presbyterian church. Only a few people on the sidewalk recognized them. Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan attended the First Presbyterian church.

'Possum For Ex-President.

Augusta, Ga., March 10.—Ex-President Taft this evening will motor out to Bath and enjoy an opossum supper.

STERLING P. GREEN VISITING BROTHER

Greenfield Drayman Who Wandered Away From Home Recently is Regaining His Health.

NOT INJURED BY EXPOSURE

Sterling P. Green, the drayman, who suffered a lapse of memory two weeks ago, and who returned home a week later in absolute oblivion of all that transpired in the meantime, is spending some time with his brother, O. D. Green, in Rush county, says the Greenfield Reporter. He seems to be enjoying the best of physical health and his mind and memory is about normal, though he and his friends think it is best for him to take absolute rest from all business cares and responsibility. His general health seems to be exceptionally good. Even all the exposure which he endured when he first wandered away did not affect him injuriously, not even sustaining a slight cold. He will probably return home in the course of a week.

In the meantime his business here is in the hands of his son, Thomas, and Frank Hanna.

C. H. & D. FREIGHT TRAINS COLLIDE

Crews on Engines Escape Death by Jumping Just Before Impact Comes.

ACCIDENT AT LYONS STATION

Regular Train Backing Into Siding When Special With Three Engines Crashes Into it.

A car load of merchandise was destroyed, two engines were demolished and the engine crews miraculously escaped death Saturday afternoon when two C. H. & D. freight trains collided head-on at Lyons Station a few miles east of Connersville Saturday afternoon. One was a regular train, and the other a special with three engines.

Traffic was delayed very little by the wreck because the switch offered an easy detour. The first word received here late Saturday was that several men had been killed.

Fortunately the regular train was slowly backing into a siding so that the impact was greatly reduced. The regular train was manned by Joe Walsh, engineer, and C. H. Rees, fireman, who saw the oncoming special in time to jump. At the same time the three engines of the special saw the inevitable crash, and they, with their firemen, also jumped. The engineer and firemen on the first and second engines of the special were Eugene Hunter, a Mr. Irvin, a Mr. Yarbough and a Mr. Gill. All of them sustained bruises from jumping, Irvin being worst hurt. None was injured dangerously.

The terrific impact of the three-header drove the lighter regular train backward along the track for nearly an eighth of a mile. The tender was knocked from the single engine and lay beside the track; the first car loaded with raw hides, was burst open, and the engine itself was buckled up from the track. A wrecking crew from Hamilton was called.

Where the fault of the wreck lies is not yet clear. Both trains, it seems, understood that the regular was to switch at the place. It was near the head of the switch when the crash occurred.

The smash-up was far less serious than at first reported here, the rumors being that three or four men were killed and as many others injured.

COMPLIMENTS LODGE.

Columbus Republican: Col. Edward H. Wolfe, of Rushville, who is one of the few thirty-third degree Masons in this country, inspected St. Johns' lodge of Masons here last night. The work in the Master Mason degree was given to Charles Ulrich after which a banquet was served and a number of local and visiting Masons made talks. L. Ert Slack, of Franklin, who is an uncle of Mr. Ulrich, was present and made a talk. Col. Wolfe complimented the local lodge on the excellent manner in which the work was given.
